PORTFOLIO PREPARATION WORKSHOPS & MUTUAL MENTORING GROUPS

CHOOSING AN APPROPRIATE JOURNAL

Dr. Christopher L. Pallas, the CETL Faculty Fellow for Graduate Student Support, has published a post on how to choose an appropriate journal article. This is a post that can be beneficial to anyone trying to publish (graduate student or faculty). Please check out this article as you prepare your plans for the summer.

As you start looking into potential journals for publication, you can start by looking at the Directory of Journals CETL maintains.

Spotlight on Expanding the NEST

Every month, we will be spotlighting one of the practices for cultivating student success. This is meant to provide tips for implementing the practice.

This month, we are spotlighting:

#25: Take a deep dive. Identify one aspect of your course to focus on and contact CETL for support (e.g., identifying the need, collecting data, designing interventions, creating a SoTL study for eventual publication, involving students as partners in this work).

CETL provides many services to faculty to take a deep dive into their course. Every faculty member is able to request one of these services each semester. For more information and to fill out a request form, please see the links below.

One-on One Consultations address any aspect of teaching and learning that you would like to work on

Classroom Observations provide feedback on your classroom instruction through a consultation and discussion

Student Focus Groups incorporate student participation in the Small Group Instructional Diagnosis (SGID) method

Custom Programming Request KSU deans, assistant or associate deans, chairs, directors, assistant or associate chairs and directors, and program directors can request custom workshops, webinars, series, or guest facilitation of teaching and learning principles for faculty development as well as for graduate student teaching and part-time faculty.
