Support for Faculty Instruction

Library Instruction Services

- The library system can partner with you to support student research success in a variety of ways.

- We offer synchronous orientations, asynchronous orientation modules, and course-specific instructional services.

- Please reach out to Christina Holm (cholm1@kennesaw.edu) if you have any questions about these services.

Synchronous Orientations

- This year we are offering a pre-scheduled set of live orientation webinars during the weeks of:
  - August 21st (Humanities Theme)
  - August 28th (Business Theme)
  - September 11th (Math & Science Theme)
- Sessions take place during normal class meeting times, and the class participates as a group.
- To sign your class(es) up, go this page and search for your event in August/September:

Asynchronous Library Orientations

- We also have orientation modules that you may embed into D2L.
- The modules take 5-10 minutes to complete and provide students with a certificate of completion.
- These modules teach students:
  - How the library supports their academic success
  - How to access library tutoring (research help)
  - How to search SuperSearch (the main library search interface)
  - How to search the Books Catalog
- Access these modules here: libguides.kennesaw.edu/leap

Instruction by Request

- The library offers course-specific instructional services.
- These services can include guest lecture sessions, asynchronous learning materials, and even one-on-one meetings between librarians and students (for an entire course).
- To access these services:
  - Complete our request form 2 weeks prior to your requested service start date (or earlier).
  - Access our request form here: kennesaw.libwizard.com/f/ltr
